Brian serves as the firm's small business and franchisee specialist, working closely with entrepreneurs to help them develop strategic accounting systems to make more informed business decisions to grow their organizations effectively. He is also a Service Disabled Veteran, and he works with government contractors to develop strategic cost cutting systems and multistate tax strategies. Brian's favorite part of being a CPA is working with business owners to help them reach their organizational goals and create opportunities. Ask him why, and he will tell you, "Entrepreneurs solve problems, that's what they do. And to be part of their team, to help them create solutions, that's the most rewarding part of the job." Since its founding, Wendroff & Associates has grown in size each year and Brian has continued to upgrade the firm's business advisory services to include outsourced CFO services, budgeting and forecasting models and free monthly accounting and tax strategy webinars. As Brian is fond of saying, A CPA firm needs to think of its clients throughout the year, not just at tax time.
